

Community Education sets fall courses

The popular and successful Community Education program, launched in Washington C.H. during February as a means of providing adult education and crafts in the schools during evenings and on weekends in addition to the offering of a year-round organized recreation program, is beginning preparations for its second fall course offerings.

Hank Shaffer, Community Education program director, said a total of 26 courses have been tentatively scheduled for the fall program at the Washington C.H. middle school building.

The courses range from recreational activities to arts and crafts. Self-enrichment and educational classes will also be offered, according to Shaffer.

The successful program was initiated here in February after more than a year of fact-finding processes. The response to the courses offered during the last session was highly successful and various classes in education, crafts or hobbies can be arranged on requests from Washington C.H. area residents. If enough persons are interested in requested courses, they will be offered at the schools during the evening.

The program is unique since tax money is not used to pay the director's salary and the program is financed through donations, city recreational funds and a grant from the Mott Foundation.

The Mott Foundation was established more than 30 years ago by Charles Mott, a businessman from Flint, Mich., who instituted the first community education programs in his home city.

Shaffer said the program will eventually utilize school buildings and recreational equipment that are normally not used after regular classes in the afternoons and evenings.

City officials instead of employing a recreational director during the past summer months, allocated the $3,000 recreational fund to Shaffer to schedule the 10-week summer activity in the city's parks.

An open house, designed for registration purposes, will be held Monday and Tuesday nights at the Washington C.H. middle school building, Shaffer said. The registration session will be held in the cafeteria both nights from 7 until 9 p.m.

Shaffer said anyone in the Washington C.H. area interested in attending any of the 26 course offerings should attend one of the two meetings to register.

The classes to be offered and the instructors include:

Children's art, Mrs. Dale Willis; typing, Mrs. Gladys Shoemaker; dancing, Mrs. Theda Hatfield; holiday crafts, Mrs. Dale Willis; beginning investments, Carl Elberfeld; crocheting, Mrs. Linda Edwards; bridge lessons, Mrs. J.C. Wright; bread making, Mrs. Linda Edwards; antique shopping, Mrs. William Pool; creweling, Mrs. Bev Loudner; hunting and conservation, Phil French; manual communications, Mrs. Janet Duvall; shorthand, Mrs. Susan Bailey; genealogy (beginning and advanced), George Robinson and Mrs. Jane Rankin; baton lessons, Mrs. Theda Hatfield; bookkeeping, Mrs. Hilda Downs; folk guitar, Victor Pontious; quilting, Miss Barbara Vance; model airplane building, Robert Yates; sewing (beginning and advanced), Mrs. Bev Loudner; decoupage, Mrs. June Fennig; public speaking, Jack Sommers; and rock polishing and jewelry making, Mrs. J. Willard Sears.

Shaffer said all classes will be either eight or 10 weeks in length. He said additional course offerings will be announced at a later date.

Leukemia fight continues

Old friends to reunite

By GEORGE MALEK

An old friendship will be renewed Saturday, a friendship which doctors once despairingly predicted would never come about.

Julie Beth Crabtree, nine-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Crabtree, Staunton-Jasper Road, will again see Ohio Lt. Gov. John W. Brown, who is also the president of the Central Ohio chapter of the Leukemia Society.

THE TWO met in the fall of 1972 when Julie Beth was named the "Ohio Leukemia Girl," more than one year after doctors diagnosed the young girl's affliction and said she had only a few weeks to live.

The reunion will take place when Julie Beth holds a leukemia backyard carnival to raise funds to help others combat the dreaded disease which she has battled so successfully for the past three years.

The carnival will begin at 9 a.m. and will last all day. The lieutenant governor will attend

Hurricane to cause higher sugar prices

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sugar cane losses inflicted by Hurricane Carmen may further increase record-high consumer sugar prices, government experts say.

The Department of Agriculture has launched a special survey of crop damage in Louisiana, which bore the brunt of the storm. Initial loss estimates ranged up to 75 per cent of the crop.

Don Paarlberg, the department's director of economics, said the storm losses could produce a substantial further impact on sugar prices, depending on the extent of the damage. Sugar prices already have soared this year because production has not kept pace with world demand.

A five-pound bag of sugar that cost American shoppers 85 cents last January costs around $2 today.

Although the Louisiana and Florida cane-growing area had been expected to produce less than 1.8 million tons of the 12.5 million tons of raw sugar needed by U.S. refineries this year, an expected decline in sugar production from beet sources magnifies the importance of the cane-growing region hit by the hurricane.

Last month the department estimated sugar cane production for the year would increase four per cent while, at the same time, beet production was expected to drop eight per cent.

Thus, the Louisiana losses would reduce the expected rise in cane production, causing prices to rise further and providing the opponents of sugar import quotas with further arguments to suspend the restrictions.

The possibility of quota suspension was raised several weeks ago by Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz, and the Louisiana storm may speed a decision on whether to open the U.S. door to more foreign sugar.

Nixon may still face prosecution

WASHINGTON (AP) — The leading Supreme Court case on presidential pardons suggests that Richard M. Nixon, although pardoned by President Ford, could still be tried and even convicted in the Watergate case but could never be punished.

Both the Constitution and the court decisions on the subject acknowledge a President's broad powers of pardon in all cases except impeachment but treat the punishment and not the trial and conviction.

An 1867 Supreme Court decision, written by Justice Stephen J. Field, is the guiding law on the scope and effect of a presidential pardon and recognizes a President's right to grant one either before or after conviction. The case was titled Ex Parte Garland.

In discussing a pardon before conviction and the situation which would arise after conviction, Field clearly raised the possibility of trying someone who could not be punished.

Field wrote, "If granted before conviction, it prevents any of the penalties and disabilities consequent upon conviction from attaching (thereto)."

The decision spoke only of the penalties and not the trial, and nothing in this or other court rulings appears to bar the judicial process leading up to the point of punishment.

There are no known cases, however, of a person having been pardoned and then tried anyway. Prosecution traditionally has been dismissed at that

N.Y. race tops primaries

WASHINGTON (AP) — A close contest over the Democratic nomination for governor in New York attracted the greatest national attention among primary elections in 13 states and District of Columbia today. Candidates sought their party's designation to run for eight U.S. Senate seats and nine other governorships. But with most big name candidates either unopposed for renomination or facing token opposition, there was little excitement over the largest schedule of elections in any one day so far during this mid-term election year.

Residents of the nation's capital were nominating a mayor for the first time in more than a century with Democratic nomination considered as good as election.

Elections also were being held in Arizona, Connecticut, Colorado, Florida, Maryland, Massachusetts, Minnesota, New Hampshire, Rhode Island, Utah, Vermont and Wisconsin.

In New York, U.S. Rep. Hugh L. Carey, from Brooklyn, and Howard J. Samuels, the man who set up New York City's legalized operation for betting on horse races away from the track, sought the Democratic nomination for governor. The winner of this close race is regarded as having the best chance of winning the governorship of any Democrat in the 16 years since Nelson A. Rockefeller first won the office.

The Republican opponent in the Nov. 5 general election is likely to be incumbent Malcolm Wilson, who is expected to win the GOP nomination for his first campaign for the office. He was elevated from the lieutenant governorship when Rockefeller resigned last December.

All five incumbent senators seeking new terms are favored to win. They are Democrats Gaylord Nelson of Wisconsin and Republicans Peter H. Dominick of Colorado, Charles McC. Mathias Jr., of Maryland, Jacob K. Javits of New York and Barry M. Goldwater of Arizona.

Senate primaries also pick nominees for the seats of retiring Sens. Norris Cotton, R-N.H., George D. Aiken, R-Vt., and Edward J. Gurney, R-Fla.

Other incumbent governors seeking renomination and expected to win it include Democrats Reubin Askew of

Nixon ready to resign from bar

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — Richard M. Nixon's lawyer says the former president is ready to write an end to 35 years as an attorney.

Nixon's lawyer, Dean Butler of Los Angeles, told newsmen on Monday that Nixon would resign soon from the California bar, which is gathering evidence on Nixon's role in Watergate for possible disciplinary action.

Nixon is also a member of the New York bar, and Butler said Nixon also plans to resign from that organization. Nixon's decision probably means the California bar will not pursue its investigation of the former president. Bar President Seth Hufstetler said the bar seldom recommends that the state Supreme Court reject a resignation.

Butler's announcement came two hours before the California bar's House of Delegates overwhelmingly condemned President Ford's pardon of Nixon for crimes he may have committed in the White House.

Butler denied that Nixon's pending action is designed to avoid disbarment or suspension from the practice of law in California.

"It is a decision he made some time ago — that he would not engage in the practice of law," Butler told newsmen.

Butler did not say when the resignations would be submitted, but Hufstetler said Nixon was preparing a resignation from the California bar and "it would be submitted promptly."

Delegates to the California bar's annual convention approved, 347 to 169, a resolution condemning the pardon announced by Ford on Sunday.

It said in part, "This action violates the principle that all persons stand equal before the law and presents a substantial threat that the confidence of our citizens in the American system of justice will be undermined."

The bar's board of governors refused to allow delegates to vote on a portion of the resolution which urged that the investigation of Nixon continue.

Nixon spent Monday at the Palm Springs estate of Walter H. Annenberg, U.S. ambassador to Britain. The former president's valet said Nixon was in good spirits and was working on his papers.

Jury chosen in Chenault murder case

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP)—Four blacks are among the seven-man, five-woman jury chosen to begin hearing testimony today in the trial of Marcus Wayne Chenault, accused of murder in the slaying of Mrs. Martin Luther King Sr. last June.

The panel was selected Monday after 42 prospective jurors were questioned. The 12 include a teacher, students, several businessmen and department store clerks.

Heavy security will be a feature of the trial. All persons entering the courtroom, including the prospective jurors were required to pass through an electronic metal detector.

The defendant was bound around the wrists and waist by heavy chains and Fulton County Sheriff LeRoy Stynchcombe said Chenault would be surrounded by deputies throughout the trial.

Chenault's attorneys claimed several threats had been made on his life and the 23-year-old Dayton, Ohio, man was taken from his jail cell to the courthouse Monday with an entourage of armed officers.

The black man is accused of firing a gun wildly in Atlanta's Ebenezer Baptist Church, killing Mrs. King and Deacon Edward Boykin.

Many attorneys general disapprove of Ford action

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer

Twenty-three of the 50 state attorneys general disapproved of President Ford's unconditional pardon of Richard M. Nixon, saying it was precipitous and establishes a double standard of justice. Seven attorneys general approve.

"This action repudiates the basic American belief that no man is above the law," said Michigan Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley, a Democrat, in a statement echoed by many of his colleagues.

The Associated Press attempted to contact all 50 chief state legal officers for their views on the pardon Ford issued Sunday and what it means. Seven were unreachable. Of the 43 attorneys general who answered, 18 Democrats and five Republicans said they disapproved; six Republicans and one Democrat, approved; five declined to comment; and eight said they had mixed feelings.

The legal experts who disapproved of the pardon gave several basic reasons:

—It was ill-timed and Ford should have waited until Nixon was accused or convicted of something in the courts before he issued any pardon.

—The action sets a double standard of justice — one for the former president and another for everyone else.

—Pardoning Nixon raises questions about pending Watergate trials.

Those who approved generally felt that Nixon had suffered enough in resigning the presidency and agreed with Ford that it would be months and possibly years before the former chief executive could get a fair court trial.

The president and president-elect of the National Association of Attorneys General both expressed disapproval of the pardon.

Vietnam amnesty plan sidetracked

WASHINGTON (AP) — Pardon for former President Richard M. Nixon has brought President Ford mounting criticism and has sidetracked a Vietnam amnesty plan he was to have announced today.

Ford missed his own deadline for announcing terms of conditional amnesty for Vietnam-era deserters and draft evaders because he was focusing attention on Nixon's pardon, aides said.

Now, no time is set for Ford's amnesty decision affecting some 50,000 men.

The President wants more time to consider the complex questions, said Deputy Press Secretary John W. Hushen.

Several advocates of amnesty felt Ford's postponing his decision after the Nixon pardon might lead to a broader, less conditional program for the Vietnam group.

But, Hushen emphasized that Ford has not changed his view that, unlike the "full, free and absolute" pardon he gave Nixon, Vietnam offenders must be judged case-by-case, category by-category.

Public reaction, meanwhile, was mounting in the first 48 hours after

Julian Bond planning race for presidential nomination

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Julian Bond claims that the Democratic party is in turmoil and says that if he does not win the party's presidential nomination in 1976 he hopes at least to have bargaining power to influence the naming of a standard bearer.

"I don't think you can run without being serious about it," the black politician said in an interview of his aspirations for the presidency.

However, Bond, at 34, an urbane, articulate legislator and professional lecturer, also is a political realist.

Asked what he will have accomplished if he runs for the nomination and does not win, he replied:

"If everything goes the way I would hope it goes, I would arrive at the Democratic convention in '76 with a sizeable bloc of the delegates pledged to me.

"And let's say the candidates are Jimmy Carter (Georgia's governor), Scoop Jackson, Teddy Kennedy, George Wallace. I would say to them — all of them — I have a set of principles here and they're not abstract, they're very real and very concrete.

"And if you want these delegates, you must agree to this set of principles and whichever one of you does can have these votes."

He defined the principles as the same 30-odd proposals the black congressional caucus made to President Nixon in 1971.

Bond said he would want a pledge that the candidate would work for higher black education, "do certain things in foreign policy toward black Africa and insure that the war on poverty not only continues but is strengthened."

He said blacks have had no consistent way to exert pressure on the national party apparatus.

Although a presidential pardon had prevented any punishment for the first offense, the court said the conviction and its legal implications were not wiped out by the pardon.

Ted Kennedy splattered by tomato

BOSTON (AP) — Sen. Edward M. Kennedy says he hopes the emotion shown by antibusing demonstrators, which left him splattered by a thrown tomato, will dissipate before Boston schools open Thursday.

But the Massachusetts Democrat expressed doubt it would — "There are still voices in the community stirring up hatred among the races."

Kennedy made the comments on Monday after he was booed and made the target of two ripe tomatoes as he tried to address a crowd of some 8,000 to 10,000 demonstrators in front of the John F. Kennedy Federal Building.

One of the tomatoes landed near Kennedy and part of the fruit splattered on him. Kennedy was also hit on the shoulder by at least one of several women who leaped in front of him as he left the gathering and shook their fists at him.

The demonstrators were protesting a school integration plan ordered by U.S. District Court Judge W. Arthur Garrity which calls for the busing of 18,200 Boston school children, 8,500 white and 9,700 black.

Kennedy said he was unable to address the crowd because the plug to the microphone had been pulled. He said he was disappointed, but added, "People feel very strongly about this. They're entitled to their views."

Prosecution aide resigns

WASHINGTON (AP) — The third-ranking member of the Watergate prosecution force has resigned because of the pardon granted former President Richard M. Nixon.

"I would not have resigned today if my responsibility hadn't been lightened," 31-year-old Philip A. Lacovara said in an interview on Monday. "My responsibilities in the past included developing legal and policy arguments concerning the role of the President under the law and the role of the former President under the law."

"Sunday's action by President Ford disposes of the question."

Lacovara, counsel to Special Prosecutor Leon Jaworski, said he did not wish to go beyond that for fear that it might interfere with a fair trial for the Watergate cover-up defendants.

"I'm not saying I'm leaving because of a disagreement," Lacovara said. "It's because my own responsibilities take on a different complexion."

Lacovara had a part in all investigations conducted by Jaworski's office and was in charge of appeals, arguing part of the government's Watergate tape case before the Supreme Court.

Unhappiness with President Ford's announcement that he was absolving the former President of guilt for any federal crimes he may have committed while in office was voiced by the foreman of the grand jury that named Nixon an unindicted coconspirator in the cover-up case.

Vladimir N. Pregelj said that "the due process of law should have taken its course," and added "if the grand jury has any options of its own, we may have to discuss them and see what could be done."

State's utilities face new crunch

By The Associated Press

Consumers of electricity—hopeful that the energy crisis has subsided and they can return to preshortage consumption—must now battle inflation. Money-pinched Ohio utilities are delaying construction of generating units which would have produced additional kilowatts.

Because of high construction costs, inflation, sluggish sales and delays in obtaining rate increases from the Public Utilities Commission of Ohio, five major state power companies are stalling plans to build new facilities up to two years.

And the delay could create energy supply problems later, officials fear.

The treasurer of Columbus & Southern Ohio Electric Co. said based on current projections and estimates, the firm is hopeful it can meet future energy demands. But he added, "You can't store electricity, so you have to be able to meet the demand when the customer flips the switch."

John Emery said if electric energy consumption goes up, utilities could have problems meeting future demands because of current building cutbacks.

C&SOE received a 19 per cent rate increase from PUCO a week ago, and the next day announced cutbacks of $224 million in building funds from a disproportionate in the blood level balance. Ultimately, it is almost always fatal.

Doctors have not determined the cause of the growth, nor have they found a means to stifle it permanently. Blood transfusions and medicine to curb the cell growth are used to deter the disease.

At one time, Julie Beth was taking some 80 pills each week and visiting University Hospital, Columbus, almost daily. The doctor bills were astronomical, and her plight generated tremendous interest in the Washington C.H. community.

A "Julie Beth Fund" was started by local residents, and many community churches and organizations held special programs and events to generate contributions.

That was three years ago. Julie Beth gradually improved. The medication was tapered off, and hospital visits became less frequent. The disease was temporarily halted, and Julie Beth began to enjoy more of her time than she had for some time.

She hopes her backyard carnival will help do for some other child what this community helped do for her. Without money to meet hospital expenses, the future is indeed gloomy for many leukemia victims. Without money for further research, a cure can never be found.

JULIE BETH knows the horror of the disease. After more than two years without signs of the disease, it showed in her blood again last month. Once again the family has embarked upon the routine of hospital visits and medication. It attacks and reoccurs without warning.

Lt. Gov. Brown also knows. He has been active in the leukemia society for many years. It brought Julie Beth and the Lt. Gov. Brown together in 1972 when she was the poster girl and named the honorary lieutenant governor, and it brings them together again Saturday.

It can only be hoped that the fight against leukemia will bring them together often, and that they and thousands of others will win the battle they fight.

Area residents are urged to give their support, by attending the carnival Saturday, or in any other way they can.

More pardons considered

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford today authorized a spokesman to announce that the question of pardons for all those connected with the Watergate scandals "is now under study."

Acting Press Secretary John W. Hushen startled reporters with the unexpected disclosure and said, "I can give you no further guidance."

Hushen made it clear possible pardons were being considered for those already convicted of Watergate-related crimes as well as those who may face trial in the future.

White House Counsel Philip Buchen had told reporters Sunday no thought had been given to such a question.

Five utilities in the Central Area Power Coordination Group serving northern and central Ohio and western Pennsylvania, say they intend to slash about $700 million from the group's joint construction plans for 1975-1979.

Central Area Power members—including Cleveland Electric Illuminating Co., Toledo Edison Co., Ohio Edison Co., Duquesne Light Co., and the Pennsylvania Power Co.—said the cutback will push back plans for another generating unit in Pennsylvania and delay for one to two years seven other generating units.

Emery pointed out that the slash in building funds won't have any immediate effect on energy supplies. He explained the plants being delayed by his firm wouldn't go into operation until 1977. But, he said after that, the situation may change.

A Toledo Edison spokesman said his firm reluctantly trimmed its building budget from $133 million to $118 million. He said officials are worried about depleting future energy reserves.

Cincinnati Gas & Electric has delayed by two years the completion of a second nuclear power plant unit at Mowcow, Ohio. Officials forecast cuts above the original $55 million reduction.

The inflation crunch has created another problem for utilities. CEI, Dayton Power and Light, Cincinnati Gas and Toledo Edison all have rate increase requests pending. Officials blame economic woes for all of the requests.

Ford's surprise pardon announcement on Sunday.

The President got a chorus of boos, amid applause, from a crowd of about 500 outside a Pittsburgh hotel where he made a speech Monday morning. There were chants of "no more cover up," and "prosecute Nixon," and demonstrators protesting the Nixon pardon held signs with such comments as: "The honeymoon is over," "Justice Died," and "Why not pardon all?"

The White House switchboard continued to be jammed with calls throughout Monday. The first 300 calls Sunday night ran 2 to 1 against Ford's decision, a White House spokesman reported.

By Monday night, however, the telephone sentiment had switched to 50-50, spokesman said.

But, there was overwhelming criticism in telegrams and mailgrams that Western Union estimated would total some 75,000 messages by Monday night. They were running 7 to 1 against Ford's pardon.

In Nixon's home state, the House of Delegates of the California Bar voted 347 to 169 in favor of a resolution which said Ford's action "violates the principle that all persons stand equal before the law and presents a substantial threat that the confidence of our citizens in the American system of justice will be undermined."

Watergate Special Prosecutor Leon Jaworski said of pardon: "This is a matter that was decided upon by the President on his authority under the Constitution. It was something I didn't participate in."

But, one of his chief aides, Philip A. Lacovara, submitted his resignation because he said Ford's pardon of Nixon "disposes of the question" of the former President's legal status.

Lacovara's was the second resignation stemming from the pardon.

Ford's press secretary, Jerald F. terHorst, who quit on Sunday as a matter of conscience and credibility, went back to work on Monday for the Detroit News, where he will now be a national columnist.

Laurel Oaks campus has nursing school

WILMINGTON — Laurel Oaks Career Development campus is one of the four Great Oaks Joint Vocational Schools where nursery school classes will be offered beginning the first Monday in October.

The nursery schools will be operated by child care teachers who are college graduates with special training in child care development, and by high school students who are enrolled in a career-oriented child care class.

Children who are three years old by September 30, 1974, and have not yet reached their fifth birthday, may be enrolled. The classes will be conducted from 8:45 to 10:45 a.m. and from 11:45 to 1:45 p.m. five days a week, Monday through Friday. The cost will be $5 per week payable monthly. Transportation must be provided by parents.

The nursery school classes will be supervised by Mrs. Naomi Stock, home economics supervisor for the Great Oaks Joint Vocational School District. Facilities are among the best in the area. The curriculum will be varied and the ratio of adults to children will allow individualized attention for each child.

Mrs. Mary Ramseyer or Mrs. Marilyn Chambers should be contacted at the Laurel Oaks campus by parents interested in enrolling their child. When classes reach the maximum enrollment of 15 children, enrollment will be closed.

AP Television Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — "Born Free" is a new NBC series based on the hit movie of the same name. The tube version stars Elsa the lioness and Gary Collins and Diana Muldaur as animal-lovers George and Joy Adamson.

The series was filmed entirely in Kenya and maybe it should have stayed there. But it braved the elements Monday night with a scheduled saga about poachers of elephants and other valuable wild animals.

Granted, Collins, portraying a game warden, had a tough task trying to stop the baddies from killing the elephants and relieving them of their ivory bridgework.

But he should have begun by dispatching native beaters in search of a good script. The opening plot was so slender it would have been marked AWOL had it turned sideways.

It guest-starred Peter Lawford as a former Kenya farmer, who, after losing his farm to Nairobi bankers when British rule left Kenya, signed on as a locust control officer for the new government.

Like his long-time friends, the Adamsons, he's hooked on the country's wild beauty and can't bring himself to leave the place.

It takes but a few minutes of dialogue before one suspects he's a sub-chieftain in a poaching ring which goes about its mean work with airplanes, radios and natives armed with poison-tipped arrows.

When it turns out he is on the side of evil, a dismayed George Adamson belts his friend in the chops. And, Lawford sighs, "What can I say, George? I needed money to get my farm back."

Miss Muldaur's role in the show consisted of a few offscreen lines about the cruelty of poachers. The rest of the time, she generally hung about the house, patting assorted animals. It was a waste of her time, if not that of the animals.

The scenery was magnificent, but that may not be enough to save this series from extinction. Send out those beaters now, George.

The Dog-Alert, advance warnings of wretched shows, is sounded now for the first segment of ABC's "Get Christie Love" on Wednesday night. Teresa Graves stars as a hip, high-spirited young undercover cop.

She may be television's first flouncing detective, but that is the only distinctive thing about the segment, a sorry, hack yarn about a ring of bandits who fence stolen jewelry and other valuables.

She infiltrates the ring, having first been ripped off for $250,000 of insurance money by a gang member who by this deed is ripping off his wicked boss, head of the fencing academy.

The boss figures this out and orders the hood done in. In due course he gets his, but not before stuffing Miss Graves in his plane and telling the pilot, "Head out over the mountains — we'll drop her in one of the canyons."

Why wasn't this done with the whole show?

Fried tempura look

The blazing sunshine of summer causes problems for women who prefer not to spend their lives in the shade or sheltered by floppy hats. The reference is not to skin cancer, though physicians do warn that too much sun may lead to this. The subject at hand is the effect of summer exposure on the ladies' appearance. Something pungent was said on the subject by the wife of Australia's Prime Minister Gough Whitlam at a Tokyo news conference. Speaking of Australian women, she remarked that "we are out in the sun a lot, so we come out looking like fried tempura." That sounds a bit extreme. It is true, though, that after about so long the golden tan a woman used to acquire in summer may be replaced by a somewhat more weathered look. But then, that's life - in the sun.

Oil not for burning

The Arabs are letting us have oil, and they are even investing some of their new-found wealth in real estate along the South Carolina coast, thus committing themselves to the need for U.S. protection of their property. The more their oil profits take the form of fixed assets in other lands, the less likelihood that they will want to wield the "oil weapon" with careless disregard for what might happen to the world economy.

This is all to the good insofar as American motorists are concerned. Unfortunately, it tends to conceal what has been called "the hidden crisis within the oil crisis."

Ever since World War II, when the Western world had such difficulty in getting natural rubber, oil has been taking on greater and greater importance as a raw material for synthetics, not only for tires but for thousands of other products. The list ranges through pharmaceuticals to synthetic fibers, and from fertilizers to plastics. Billions of dollars are risked every year on the assurance that petrochemical feedstocks will be coming through on schedule.

For the moment the petrochemical industry is doing all right; the Federal Energy Administration has established allocations permitting continuing access at market price to 100 per cent of the 1973 feedstock supplies. This "hunting license," however, does not make provision for growth in a field that tends to expand exponentially. As F. Perry Wilson, the Union Carbide Company board chairman, recently put it at a meeting of petroleum refiners, the value of oil as a raw material is such that we must face the fact "that oil is not just for burning." (The same is true, incidentally, for natural gas.)

Petrochemicals have become so much a part of our life that a 15 per cent cutback in their use would put 1.8 million people in the U.S. out of work. The carpets we walk on, the curtains and drapes on the windows, the paint on the wall, the upholstery on our chairs, the telephone fixtures and the insulation that makes electrical systems safe — all of these things have been more and more dependent on a ready supply of petrochemical feedstocks.

Quite aside from the gas it consumes the automobile is an "oil" product: 150 pounds in the normal Detroit car is plastic. Shatterproof windshield glass requires a petroleum-based binder, and the new cushion bumpers come from polyurethane that can be used alter-

30-and-out plan brings few takers

DETROIT (AP) — Thousands of auto workers are not using the industry's unique 30-and-out retirement plan because they do not think they can afford to retire on a fixed income, says one of the plan's architects.

Doug Fraser, a UAW vice president who helped get the plan into the contract negotiated with Chrysler Corp. last fall, cited figures showing that only about 1,300 of the 33,000 auto workers eligible for full pension benefits have taken advantage of it so far. He says, however, that many workers may wait to retire until Oct. 1 when benefits increase.

The 30-and-out plan, which the union considered a major breakthrough in the last contract negotiations, allows a worker to retire after 30 years' service with Chrysler, General Motors or Ford with full pension. In the past, workers could retire after 30 years, but not with full benefits if they were under 65.

Top benefits will increase from $550 to $625 dollars a month on Oct. 1. Most auto workers make more than $260 a week before taxes, with the average assembler pulling in about $240.

Fraser says of the low number of retirements: "With living costs continuing to rise, they feel they just can't afford to retire on a fixed income. They know they would be wiped out."

A GM spokesman says that in the past 11 months, 804 hourly workers used 30-and-out to retire. At Ford, a spokesman said 350 workers retired under the plan. Chrysler figures were not available, but a spokesman said they were expected to number about 150.

UAW officials say, however, they feel it's been important to establish the principle of early retirement.

Fraser said that many eligible workers may be waiting an extra few years to get higher benefits (they rise to $700 a month by 1978), and the company-paid dental program which begins next month.

Ohio Perspective

Vanity license plates sluggish

By ROBERT E. MILLER
Associated Press Writer
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohioans didn't exactly overwhelm state officials with requests for the new Ohio vanity automobile license plates this year.

But, the Bureau of Motor Vehicles isn't worried. "Judging from the sale of special plates in other states," said Brian Bolton, an administrative assistant, "we got just about what we expected."

The state has approved 9,911 applications for special letter and number combinations. Bolton said trends in other states have been for the special plates to catch on rather slowly.

The bureau invited and received applications for vanity plates from May 1 through an Aug. 15 deadline. Bolton said applications for plates for the 1976 license year will be received through approximately the same period next year.

Bolton indicated that he expects the idea of buying special plates spelling out favorite names and slogans of auto owners to increase, but they may never be as popular as the less flexible reserved plates which have been available for years.

The reserved plates sell for $5 extra, but limit special combinations to three letters. The new plates permit any tasteful combination of six numbers and letters, but cost a substantial $35 more than ordinary plates.

In both instances the special charge is on top of the $10 flat license plate fee and in addition to the $5 permissive tax levied by most of Ohio's 88 counties.

Still another 50 cents is charged for reflecting the plates. During the past year Ohio issued 111,000 three-letter special plates. The $5 charged extra for these plates was intended only to cover the administrative costs, Bolton said.

The new vanity plates are designed to produce revenue to improve and maintain Ohio's roadside parks program. Of the $35 extra charge, $5 goes for costs and the other $30 into a roadside park rotary fund.

The 9,911 plates slated for issue the first year will provide $297,330 for the fund.

The steel shortage, which helped state officials decide to use validation stickers instead of new plates next year for the vast majority of Ohio's nearly 8 million vehicles, did not affect the special plates program.

More about schnozz-size stereotypes

DEAR ABBY: I have been saddened and amused by the number of letters in your column from people who were upset by the size of their noses. The mother who couldn't love her baby because of its big schnozz hit me hard.

To, me, a prominent nose is beautiful. Look at Cleopatra. A little button-nose may be "cute," but give me the beauty and character of a nose that is proud and prominent!

We are all entitled to our own standards of beauty. Why should we let Madison Avenue stereotypes lead us around by the nose?

KNOWS NOSES

DEAR NOSES: We shouldn't. Which inspires the following limerick:

There once was a beauty named Rose, A Puritan life-style she chose. Lechers gale she would show to the door. Would you say she was saved by her NOS?

(Edgar Allen Po-Po)

DEAR ABBY: I would like to say something about that young mother who was depressed because she thought her infant daughter was too homely to take out in public.

I'm glad you sent that mother to a psychiatrist because she is in desperate need of treatment. If she doesn't take your advice and go I'm afraid her daughter will be the one to end up on a psychiatrist's couch, getting treated for her inferiority complex.

That is what happened to me. When I was a little girl, my mother drummed into my head that I was homely. I grew up believing it. I let myself get fat and sloppy. I never cared how I looked because I thought I was too hopelessly ugly, nobody could care for me. My self-esteem was about as low as it could get.

At age 17, I had had three abortions, so my mother sent me to a psychiatrist. Meanwhile, she sobbed, "I'll never understand that child. I gave her everything."

My psychiatrist explained that small children believe everything their parents tell them and that my problems began when my mother convinced me that I was homely.

"TWENTY TWO AND NOT HOMELY ANYMORE"
DEAR ABBY: That disturbed young mother who couldn't love her baby because it had such a homely nose prompts me to write this.

I recently visited a young (and very handsome) couple who have a nine-month-old baby. No one warned me, so I wasn't prepared for what I saw when they brought her out.

She was positively the homeliest baby I had ever seen. Unusually homely!

I was lost for what to say, so I just said, "Hi, darling baby!" She smiled, her eyes twinkled and her homely little face lit up as she held out her arms to welcome me as a new friend.

Within minutes I knew the secret of that baby's charm. Her parents treated her as though she were an exquisitely beautiful and beloved treasure by letting her know what a loved baby she was. Consequently, she is exactly what they told her to be—a beautiful treasure.

Within minutes one forgets that she is not a very pretty baby, because it doesn't matter. Her personality is sunny, lovable and responsive.

Parents of "homely" babies can learn a lot from this couple. I did.

AFRIEND

DEAR FRIEND: And I'll wager so many others.

DEAR ABBY: Please print this for the mother who was so "depressed" because her baby had such a large nose.

Our first baby was a beautiful little girl. There was only one problem. She was born with "spina bifida"—an open spine.

Our baby is only four months old and she has had, to date, surgery five times.

Abby, instead of this mother looking at her baby and crying because of her large nose, she should be crying for joy and thanking God for having blessed her with a healthy baby. She doesn't know how lucky she is.

Charges dropped in bike theft

NEW YORK (AP) — Charges of robbery, grand larceny and possession of stolen property against a 20-year-old New York man accused of stealing a bike from John F. Kennedy Jr. have been dismissed.

For the fourth time, the son of the late President John F. Kennedy failed to show up in court to testify against Robert Lopez. Lopez was charged with stealing young Kennedy's bicycle in Central Park last May 14.

Judge Robert Haft on Monday dismissed the charges against Lopez over the protests of Manhattan Dist. Atty. Richard H. Kuh. Kuh complained that the "Kennedy-Onassis family has been thousands and thousands of miles away" while authorities tried to bring the case to trial.

Brown rips Ford action on pardon

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Richard Nixon should "stand before the bar like anyone else," Ohio Atty. Gen. William Brown said Monday in criticizing President Ford's pardon of the former chief executive.

Brown, a Democrat, said Ford's action was "a slap in the face of the judicial system of this country."

Noting that former presidential aides were in prison while Nixon was given amnesty from prosecution, Brown said, "If that's how we're going to treat ex-public officials, we're better off revising the system."

Meanwhile, U.S. Rep. Delbert Latta, R-Ohio, one of Nixon's staunchest supporters when the House Judiciary Committee was considering articles of impeachment, said Monday the pardon may have been premature.

In a statement released by his office in Bowling Green, Latta said he believes Ford should have waited until all the facts were in before taking such action.

"It would seemingly be impossible to know with any certainty what the former President is being pardoned for until the tapes now to be released have been reviewed," Latta said.

Lioness Club annual husband's party held Saturday at Country Club

A vibrating after-dinner address by the Rev. Father Richard J. Connelly and a hilarious skit concerning the mythical Washington C.H. Offsides football team were featured during the Washington C.H. Lioness Club's annual husbands' party Saturday night in the Country Club.

The husbands party was held in lieu of the Lioness Club's regularly scheduled Tuesday night meeting. A total of 116 persons attended.

Father Connelly, pastor of St. Colman's Catholic Church in Washington C.H., presented a thought-provoking and sometimes spine-tickling talk on why persons should be proud to be Americans.

The amiable Father Connelly, as usual, mixed some rib-tickling stories with his more serious thoughts and applauded the Lions and Lioness club members for their sight-saving projects.

Lions Club member Bart Mahoney served as the head coach of the make-believe Washington C.H. Offsides pro football team.

Mahoney introduced each of the 14 team members and cheerleaders with some humorous comments. The skit ended when all had been introduced and in unison sounded a cheer.

Team members were Mrs. Richard Winttingham, Ralph Cook, Ben Roby, Ralph Douglass, Wesley Cox, Rick Stinson, Richard Patton, Carmen Frogale, Daryl Stewart, S.E. Vaughn, David Boswell and Ralph Hyer. Cheerleaders were Mrs. S.E. Vaughn and Gene Sagar.

Miss Dorothy Donohoe welcomed members of Circle III of First Presbyterian Church, when Mrs. Ralph Jones, leader, opened the meeting by reading from Psalm.

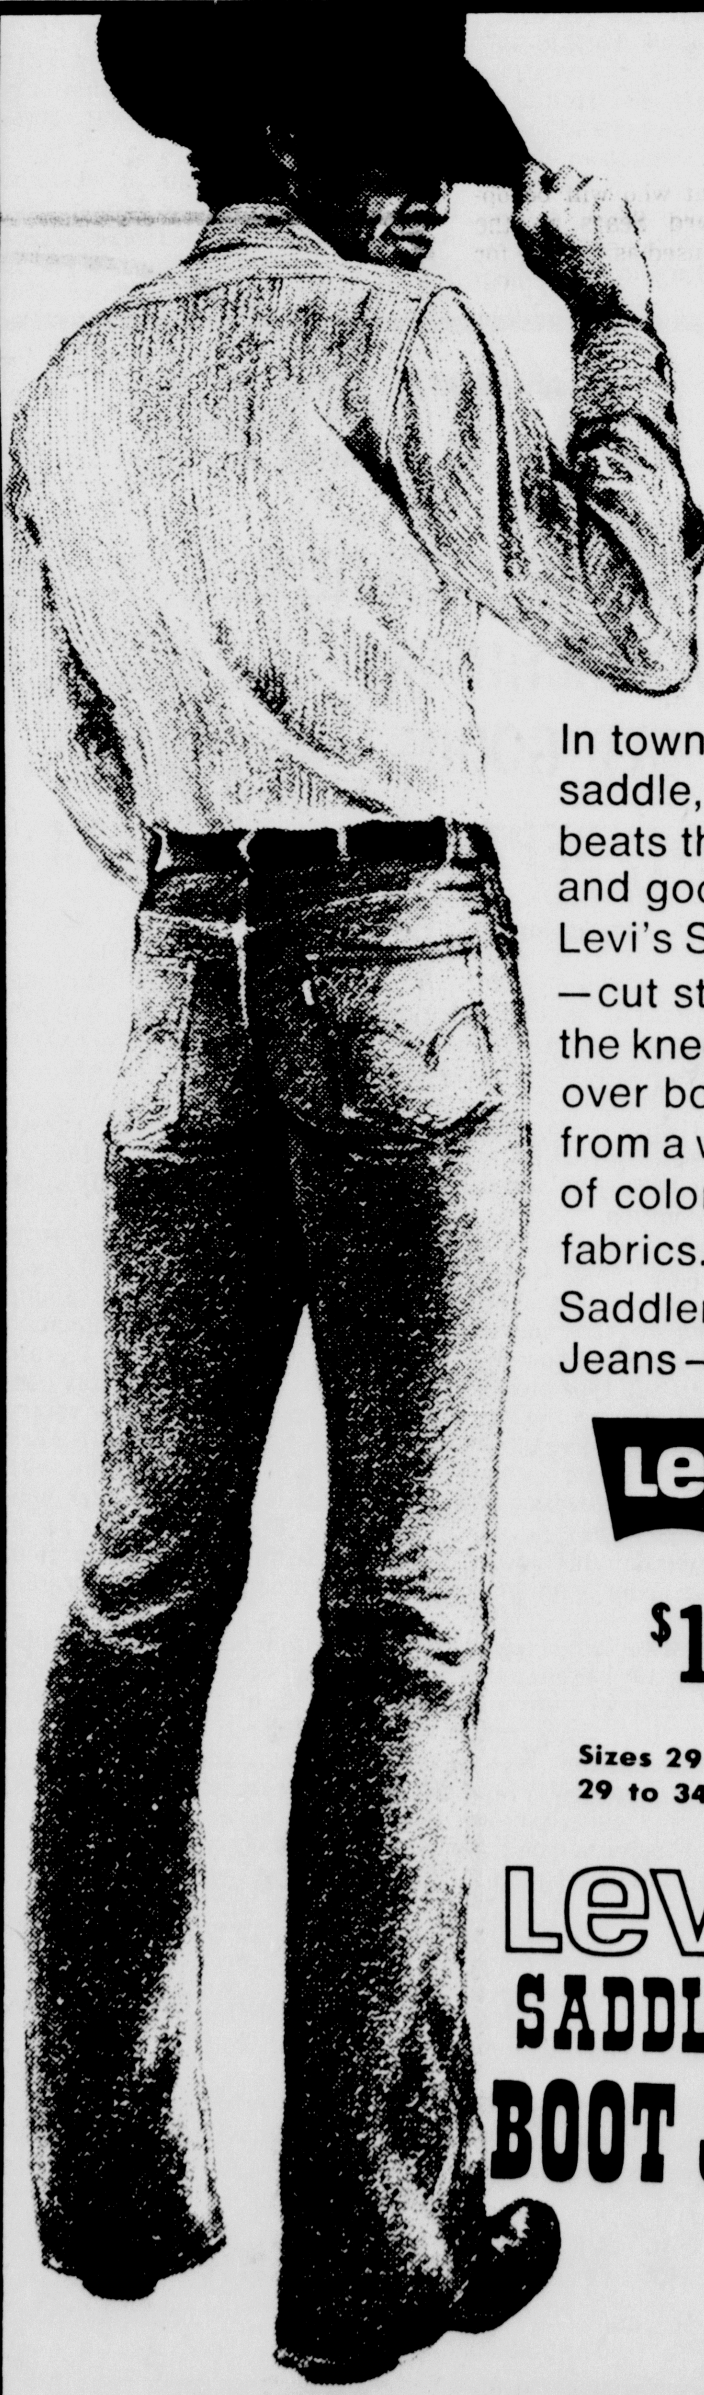

Mrs. C. L. Musser read from the Yearbook of Prayer concerning mission activities in southern Virginia and North Carolina. Mrs. Gerald Wheat presented the Mission Interpretation Letter.

The Association meeting was announced for 6 p.m. Sept. 26 with Circle III as the host.

Since this was the final lesson from "Concern", the Neighborhood Bible Series was discussed as a basis for Bible study for the coming year.

Mrs. Scott gave an interesting review of the last lesson from "Concern" entitled "Thy Kingdom Come." It was a summary of the 'Teachings of Jesus' emphasizing joy for all Christians, a living sign of promise.

The meeting was adjourned and a social hour followed with refreshments served by the hostess to nine members and a guest, Mrs. Tom Grove.

State board sets vo-ed program aid

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The State Board of Education pledged its all-out assistance Monday to school districts that have failed to meet state requirements for vocational education programs.

Board President John Meckstroth of Cincinnati said board members and Ohio Education Department officials will hold a series of five meetings with school districts throughout the state.

Meckstroth said the meetings will be held to help districts pass bond issues or levies to provide money for vocational facilities or buy their way into a joint vocational school district.

The action came after Stoner, president of the Mercer-Auglaize Joint Vocational District, which comprises 11 local districts, told the board that the districts cannot meet the state requirement for full job training programs.

Under state statutes, districts were either to set up their own job training program or to join a joint vocational district by Sept. 1, 1974.

Districts have often found it more economical if several of them combine in one vocational unit.

Stoner said the problem with the Mercer-Auglaize joint district is that voters in the 11 individual districts have voted down bond issue questions five times.

Dates and locations of the meetings will be announced shortly, Meckstroth said.

Meetings will be held for regions encompassed by these counties: Crawford, Hancock, Hardin, Putnam, Seneca and Wyandot; Auglaize, Darke and Mercer; Columbiana and Trumbull; Cochocton and Fairfield; and Adams.

"Our concern is to offer every possible assistance to school districts which have not been able to make suitable plans," said Meckstroth.

In other action, the board set new standards making the state subsidy for bus purchases more directly related to the available tax revenue in school districts.

The board also voted to return part of the Forest Hills Local School District in Hamilton County to Cincinnati public schools.

The move, requested by officials of both districts, reversed a four-year-old decision changing the Four Mile Road area from Cincinnati to Forest Hills.

Wyandotte building saved by protests

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Public objections have caused the state Department of Administrative Services to reverse its decision to demolish the 76-year-old Wyandotte Building in downtown Columbus.

The building, which is listed in the National Register of Historic Landmarks, was vacated and scheduled for destruction after the state fire marshal ruled it a fire hazard.

County government topic during Kiwanis Club meet

Operation of county government was discussed by veteran Fayette County commissioner Robert J. Mace during the regular weekly dinner meeting of the Washington C.H. Kiwanis Club Monday night in the Lafayette Inn.

Mace, a Democrat who will be opposed by J. Willard Sears in the November election, used as a guide for his address the minutes of typical Fayette County Board of Commissioners meeting.

Some high points of the county government that were pointed out by Mace were that the county's financial operation has always been in the black; tax money is wisely invested to achieve financial success; the first subdivision regulations appeared in 1962; the first zoning regulations were voted on in 1964 and failed, but since that time several townships have approved the regulations; the airport runway was constructed in 1967 and that the county commissioners have spent funds in the city, although they are not obligated by law to do so.

MACE SAID some 30 county department heads are required to submit an annual budget by June of each year. A balanced budget must then be achieved with anticipated income, he said. Occasionally, according to Mace, one of the most difficult jobs of the commissioners is to pare thousands of dollars from the budgets of the various county departments.

To meet the obligations of the county, the commissioners receive 3 mills of tax of Fayette County real estate, according to Mace.

Mace closed by saying that the general public — both city and county residents — are welcome to attend the commissioners meetings.

The meeting was conducted by club president George Gibbs. Mace was introduced by club member Mike Campbell.

Gibbs announced a training session

Robert D. Wagersmith, 37, Yellow Springs, was fined $200, sentenced to 30 days in jail (27 of which were suspended) and lost his license for 30 days after he was found guilty of DWI.

Halthcock had been cited by city police. Wagersmith and all other cases scheduled Monday were filed by the Ohio Highway Patrol.

Muskie has no objection to lotteries

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—U.S. Sen. Edmund G. Muskie, D-Maine, said Monday he has no moral objections to lotteries but questions their use as a way to raise money for states.

Muskie spoke to reporters at an impromptu news conference here after addressing the Urban League's conference on regionalism.

The conference was set up by State Sen. Ronald M. Mottl, D-24 Parma, who guided the Ohio lottery through the General Assembly.

"It is incongruous states should be subject to incredible penalties because of state lotteries," the Maine Democrat said.

U.S. Atty. Gen. William B. Saxbe has put officials of Ohio, Maine and 11 other states on notice that they will have to get congress to change federal laws restricting lotteries or the justice department will be forced to prosecute.

Muskie said he favors legislation allowing lotteries to operate but that that does not mean he encourages the games.

Mottl said he had not had time to tell Muskie in advance about the subject of the news conference.

Once back in his suite, Muskie was heard to inquire what the news conference was about.

When told, Muskie's initial reaction was, "I'd rather not comment until I have a chance to study it."

341 teachers rehired at Cincy

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Using new state and federal funds, the Cincinnati Board of Education has hired back 341 of the 650 teachers fired in an economy cutback last spring.

Harriet Russell, president of the Cincinnati Teachers Association said only 67 of the remaining teachers still are looking for jobs.

She said the others have found other employment or have declined further employment with the Cincinnati Board of Education.

Norman silences San Diego

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Fred Norman says he's kind of sorry to leave his new-found home in the Cincinnati bullpen.

Norman pitched himself back into the Reds' starting rotation Monday night when he limited the San Diego Padres to four hits in nearly six innings and helped Cincinnati gain an 8-3 victory.

"I was just getting myself mentally used to being a relief pitcher," said Norman who has been used out of the bullpen since mid-August. "It's a whole different philosophy from starting."

"When you are in the bullpen you know that you might be pitching every day, so you have to get yourself up for every game."

"When you're starting you don't have to do that."

Norman's reassignment to the starting rotation came just in time for a possible chance to face the front-running Los Angeles Dodgers in a crucial three-game rematch.

Three of the hits Norman gave up against his former teammates came in the third inning when Enzo Hernandez singled with two out. Rich Morales and Dave Grubb then followed with back-to-back homers to account for all the Padres scoring.

Norman was sailing along in the sixth when he was hit by a line driver off the bat of Randy Elliot. The ball hit Norman on the thigh and he was replaced by Pedro Borbon who did not allow a hit the rest of the way.

Manager Sparky Anderson said he did not believe the injury would prevent Norman from facing the Dodgers this weekend.

"As far as I'm concerned, Norman's back in the starting rotation," Anderson said.

Anderson was worried before the game about his team rebounding from last weekend's series with Los Angeles.

"I was afraid we might be down after the Dodger series," said Anderson. "We needed something like their third inning homers to wake us up."

"But I kind of hate to get awakened like that."

Cincinnati scored four times in the fifth when Tony Perez hit his 24th homer of the year and Dave Concepcion stroked his 11th home run of the baseball season.

While the Reds were beating San Diego, Los Angeles was trouncing Atlanta 8-1, but Anderson said last weekend's series, when the Dodgers won two-of-three games has ended scoreboard watching.

"There's no need to watch the scoreboard anymore," said Anderson. "If we don't win 15 more games, it won't matter what the Dodgers do the rest of the year."

Geoff Zahn, a 27-year-old rookie with the Los Angeles Dodgers, pitched a four-hitter for the first complete game of his major league career, stopping the Atlanta Braves 8-1.

FRED NORMAN

Maturity shows for Bengals

By FRED ROTHENBERG
AP Sports Writer

In the past, the only superstar on the Cincinnati Bengals has been their coach. His name is Paul Brown and he has a reputation for raising football teams into championship ones.

He did it with the Cleveland Browns a generation ago and he is on the verge of doing it with the young Bengals, who only came into the National Football League in 1968.

The Bengals are growing up and one mark of their maturity is that they do not think their coach is the only star in Cincinnati anymore.

"We know what we can do," said captain Royce Berry. "We're not a faceless team anymore. There's nobody better in the NFL than Mike Reid at defensive tackle and Isaac Curtis as a receiver. And outside of O.J. Simpson, we think we've got the best backfield combination."

That could spell bad news for the Pittsburgh Steelers, who were knocked from their perch as champions of the American Football Conference Central Division in 1973.

That could spell bad news for the Cleveland Browns, who haven't been the best NFL team in Ohio since 1972.

And then there's Houston. The Oilers have managed two total victories in the last two seasons. For them, any news is probably bad news.

Cincinnati Bengals

The Bengals took the AFC Central Division title last year with a 10-4 record, finishing ahead of the Steelers, also 10-4, because of a better record against division competition. And they did it by overcoming an injury-plagued 4-4 start with six straight victories including a 27-0 rout of Super Bowl runner-up Minnesota.

The Bengals are the youngest team in the league. The only player over 30 is kicker Horst Muhlmann and he has a very young foot.

Ken Anderson, 25, the Bengals' quarterback, was forced to go the distance without a strong backup last year, but he wasn't fazed, finishing the season with a 54.4 completion average, third best in the AFC. His 18 touchdown passes were second best in the conference.

Boobie Clark, AFC rookie of the year, is 23. The hard-running Clark teamed with the elusive Essex Johnson to provide the legs that carried the Bengals into the playoffs against Miami. Johnson and Clark accounted for 1,983 rushing yards in 1973, finishing third and eighth among the NFL's top 10 ground gainers.

Curtis emerged as the solution to the Bengals' pass receiving problems. Curtis, 23, who can race the football field in 9.3 seconds, grabbed 45 passes and also appears headed for stardom.

Brown has constructed a strong, aggressive defense, but the trade of Bill Bergey to the Philadelphia Eagles leaves a big question mark at middle linebacker.

Brown has nominated third-year pro Jim Le Clair to solve the problem.

Pittsburgh Steelers

The Pittsburgh Steelers hope to be busy playing — not watching — football on Jan. 12 in New Orleans at Superbowl IX.

And they have the luxury of three drivers to get them there.

Joe Gilliam won a three-way battle for the starting quarterback position after tossing for an NFL-high 11 touchdown passes in the preseason and leading the Steelers through their first undefeated exhibition schedule.

"We'll go with Joe in the regular season opener with Baltimore," Pittsburgh Coach Chuck Noll said after Thursday night's 41-15 blitz of the Dallas Cowboys. "I'm not displeased with anybody but Joe has just been tremendous."

"Nobody on this team is No. 1 or No. 2. All 47 players contribute."

It might be hard to convince quarterbacks Terry Bradshaw and Terry Hanratty that they're no No. 1 while they're sitting on the bench.

Wide receivers Ron Shanklin and Frank Lewis are back, challenged by impressive rookies Lynn Swann, the Pacific Eight's all-time leading pass receiver, and John Stallworth, Alabama A&M.

Franco Harris, a 1,000-yard ground gainer in 1972, was hampered by injuries last season while rushing for 698 yards, tops on the club. After rough going in the early preseason, Harris had his best game of the year Thursday night, rushing for 72 yards on 10 carries.

Even with injuries to key players last year like Harris, his running mate John Fuqua, and quarterbacks Bradshaw and Hanratty, the Steelers still managed to score the second most points in the NFL in 1973.

The Steelers' reputation historically is for defense and it's well deserved. This season should be no different; no

The victories left the Dodgers 3 1/2 games ahead of the Reds in the National League West race.

Elsewhere in the National League, Chicago beat Pittsburgh 9-4, Philadelphia blanked St. Louis 2-0, San Francisco topped Houston 8-6 and New York defeated Montreal 7-1.

Cubs 9, Pirates 4

Jose Cardenal and Andre Thornton blasted homers for the Cubs, and Dave LaRoche came on in the eighth inning to preserve the victory for Steve Stone, 7-5. When LaRoche was summoned, the Cubs were nursing a 6-4 lead and Pittsburgh had the bases loaded.

Phils 2, Cards 0

The Cards failed to take advantage of Pittsburgh's loss and remained 2 1/2 games behind the Pirates in the NL East by losing to Philadelphia 2-0 as Jim Lonborg fired a two-hitter.

Lou Brock failed in his effort to record his 104th stolen base of the season and tie the alltime record held by Maury Wills.

Giants 8, Astros 6

The Giants broke a 3-3 tie with five runs in the eighth inning. Tito Fuentes drove in the tie-breaking run with a single, Gary Matthews belted a two-run double and Dave Kingman close-out the surge with a two-run triple.

Mets 7, Expos 1

Ray Sadecki scattered eight hits and contributed a run-scoring single to a four-run fourth inning for the Mets. Dave Schneck had a two-run single in the fourth and Bud Harrelson drove in the final run of the inning with a single.

team in the division gave up fewer points last year.

Cleveland Browns

Last season was the first time in three years that the Browns missed the NFL's annual playoff party.

Most of Cleveland's problems were on offense, where the Browns ranked 23rd in the entire NFL.

Gone are the days when the main Brown was Jimmy Brown, who would lead a devastating rushing attack. Last year's main Brown was Ken Brown, who rushed for a teamleading 537 yards. But he never scored a touchdown and his longest jaunt from scrimmage was 17 yards.

Leroy Kelly, the former AllPro running back, was grabbed by the Oakland Raiders via the waiver route early in preseason.

During Kelly's premier seasons, he was the Browns' breakout threat. Now the Browns hope second-year pro Greg Pruitt can pick up the slack. Pruitt averaged six yards per carry in 61 attempts last year.

Quarterback Mike Phipps, starting his fifth NFL season, again will be in control of the Cleveland offense. Phipps was the 10th-ranked quarterback in the AFC last year. He ran for five touchdowns and passed for nine, but 20 of his passes ended up in the hands of the opposition, an AFC high.

Houston Oilers

"I do not wish to demean the Houston Oilers or the National Football League. I am just looking for a better means of employment."

Those words were spoken by the Oilers' No. 1 draft pick in 1973, John Matuszak, who waved goodbye to the Oilers and his contract two weeks ago when he signed with the Houston Texans of the World Football League.

And even though Matuszak was knocked out of the Texans' game two weeks ago by a court restraining order, he did get to see a Houston victory, which is as many regular season triumphs as he saw with the Oilers in 1973.

To make matters worse, Oilers' Coach and General Manager Sid Gillman were going to construct a 5-3 defense around the mammoth Matuszak.

And to compound matters even worse for the Houston defense, only five teams in NFL history ever have given up more points than the 447 the Oilers surrendered in 1973.

On offense, Houston had the worst rushing game in the NFL last year. Fred Willis led the ground game with 579 yards.

Willis also topped the entire conference in pass receiving, grabbing 57 passes coming out of the backfield. Ken Burroughs is the Oilers' long threat at wide receiver.

There doesn't seem to be much help from the Oiler rookies either as Houston had only 10 draft choices, their first coming after 78 other names had been called.

Dan Pastorini was the No. 1 quarterback last year, but Lynn Dickey guided the Oilers to their one victory.

John Matuszak just might have had the right idea.

Yanks beat Boston; hold division lead

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

Usually a tough town for the Yankees, Boston was a nice place to visit Monday night as New York beat the Red Sox 6-3 and took a one-game lead in the American League East pennant race.

"I knew we'd win a game here some day," said New York Manager Bill Virdon after the Yankees snapped an 11-game losing streak at Fenway Park.

The victory was the Yankees' first in Boston since July 31, 1973 and only their second there in 22 appearances since the 1972 season.

The Baltimore Orioles also won at a crucial moment, beating the Milwaukee Brewers 6-5 in 11 innings Monday night. The victory boosted the Orioles into a second-place tie with Boston in the hot East race.

In the other American League games, the Oakland A's took a doubleheader from the Kansas City Royals, 3-0 and 7-0; the California Angels beat the Texas Rangers 4-1 in the first game of a doubleheader before losing the second 5-3; the Cleveland Indians downed the Detroit Tigers 7-1 and the Minnesota Twins defeated the Chicago White Sox 3-1.

Chris Chambliss and Elliott Maddox each drove in two runs, helping New York beat Boston.

George "Doc" Medich, 18-12, was the winning pitcher with eighth-inning relief help from Sparky Lyle. Medich gave up two runs in the inning, one on a homer by Carl Yastrzemski, before Lyle came to the rescue.

Orioles 6, Brewers 5

Bobby Grich singled with two out in the 11th inning and eventually scored the winning run on a wild pitch by Tom Murphy, giving the Orioles their victory over Milwaukee.

The Brewers tied the score at 5-5 on Darrell Porter's grand slam home run in the ninth inning off Reynolds.

A's 3-7, Royals 0-0

Vida Blue hurled a two-hitter and Catfish Hunter a four-hitter, pitching Oakland to a sweep of their two-night doubleheader against Kansas City. The sweep moved the A's 6 1/2 games ahead of Texas in the American League West.

Blue, 15-14, struck out five and walked only one, while Hunter posted his sixth consecutive victory and raised his record to 23-10.

Angels 4-3, Rangers 1-5

Chuck Dobson, stopped Texas on seven hits in pitching California's first-game victory. Roy Howell's first major league home run triggered a three-run Texas rally in the fourth inning and the Rangers went on to beat California in the second game.

Indians 7, Tigers 1

Oscar Gamble's first-inning, two-run homer triggered a three-run rally and Dick Bosman pitched a three-hitter to lead Cleveland over Detroit.

Twins 3, White Sox 1

Home runs by Harmon Killebrew and Steve Braun in the eighth inning powered Minnesota over Chicago.

Fighting Irish topple Yellow Jackets, 31-7

ATLANTA (AP) — Ara Parseghian called it "a test for us to see how much damage was done through all our losses."

His Notre Dame team, reeling from the loss of eight potential starters, survived the test Monday night with a 31-7 nationally televised football victory over Georgia Tech, but lost two more front line players in the process.

Running back Art Best was sidelined with a broken jaw and linebacker Sherman Smith left with torn ligaments in his left knee as problems continued to mount for the defending national collegiate champions.

Despite it all, Parseghian said, "I think we're going to be a pretty solid team. We'll get better as the season progresses."

The Irish, ranked No. 3 in The Associated Press preseason poll, were forced into a comeback role when Tech methodically marched 68 yards to score after the opening kickoff.

Notre Dame cashed in a fumble recovery at the 14 for the tying touchdown, went ahead on freshman Dave Reeve's 22-yard field goal and established control with a goal line stand that closed the door on Tech's last chance to regain the lead.

Tom Clements, a brilliant quarterback, then picked apart Tech's secondary with six pass completions for 83 yards in a drive that produced a touchdown in the final minute of the half for a 17-7 Irish lead.

Notre Dame spoiled the coaching debut of Pepper Rodgers, who left UCLA last year to return to Tech, where he once played quarterback.

Rodgers had said earlier that Tech "didn't build its football reputation by beating Notre Dame." He said Monday night, "They're too good for us. I didn't schedule them. I never would have."

After Tech's 7-0 lead on an eight-yard scoring pass from Rudy Allen to Jimmy Robinson, Notre Dame drew even when Wayne Bullock slashed over from the two following a fumble recovery at the Jacket 14.

The Irish jumped ahead 10-7 on Reeve's field goal eight seconds after the second period began, and got the padded lead they needed on Clements' seven-yard scoring toss to Pete Demmerle late in the half.

Bullock got another touchdown on a one-yard plunge following a fumble recovery at Tech's 22 and Al Samuel capped an 80-yard fourth period march with an eight-yard scoring run.

Wrong winners

Our apologies to Mr. and Mrs. Donald Anderson, the new husband and wife champions at the Washington Country Club. According to the results turned in to the Record-Herald, it appeared as though the Anders won the tournament. The Anderson's shot a combined round of 178, as Mr. Anderson carded a 78 and Mrs. Anderson had a 100.

Miami Trace raising

Mowery donations

The Mowery Memorial Committee will be raising donations for the Mowery Memorial Fund at each of the home football games. The donation tickets, are $1 and a drawing will be held at the halftime of the Unioto game on November 8. The person holding the winning ticket will receive a hog carcass. Second and third place drawing will receive a half of a hog carcass, while the fourth place winner will receive a lamb carcass.

Columbus parcel firm seeking service here

A Columbus-based parcel service company has filed an application with the Public Utilities Commission of Ohio (PUCO) seeking authority to establish a complete service to shippers in the Fayette County area.

A.J. Tweed, development director of Columbus Parcel Service, Inc., said the shipment and delivery firm received overwhelming response from a mail survey conducted recently in the Washington C.H. area to determine the amount of interest in such a proposal.

"Most of the replies indicated considerable interest. Since no one is protesting our application for authority from and to Fayette County, PUCO has agreed to hold a brief hearing in Washington C.H. so that those favoring the new service can very quickly and conveniently support our application," Tweed said.

The hearing will be held from 11 a.m.

Dog obedience class launched

Twenty-five dogs participated in the first course of a 10-week dog obedience class Monday night in the Fine Arts Building on the Fayette County Fairground.

Mrs. Elmer Haymaker, course instructor, said 13 different breeds are represented in the 25-dog class. Ages of the dogs range from four months to two years. The class will graduate Nov. 11.

Approximately 50 persons attended the opening dog obedience class Monday night. Mrs. Haymaker said spectators are permitted to attend the one-hour classes.

Dog owners may register for the course at next Monday's meeting. The class will be closed to other entries after that time, Mrs. Haymaker said. The fee is $20.

During Monday's opening session, the top two dogs from the last obedience class presented a demonstration. The dogs were owned by Mrs. Rodney Acton and Mrs. John McFadden.

until 12 noon Friday in the conference room at the Washington C.H. Area Chamber of Commerce office, 145 S. Fayette St. The hearing will be conducted by Richard T. Trettin, attorney examiner for PUCO.

Trettin is familiar with the type of service Columbus Parcel Service, Inc., renders to other Ohio communities and he will be primarily concerned with determining if Fayette County area shippers also need the service.

The Columbus firm has requested assistance from the Washington C.H., Jeffersonville and New Holland Chambers of Commerce.

Council to meet Wednesday night

No legislation has been scheduled for the regular semi-monthly meeting of Washington C. H. City Council at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday in the City Office Building.

City Manager Dan Wolford said Council is expected to approve a request for the payment of $1,711.47 to the Domtar Co. for salt to be used on city streets during the winter months.

Council members will also be honoring five Washington C. H. area youngsters who recently achieved the Eagle Scout rank.

Man tried in slayings

FALMOUTH, Ky. (AP) — Jury selection was scheduled to continue today in Pendleton Circuit Court in the murder trial of William Sloan, charged in the slayings of three men here last October.

Sloan, 24, is serving three life terms and 131 years in prison following his conviction in April of assisting in the deaths of a Lexington minister and his two teen-age children.

Sloan escaped the Lexington Federal Building jail Oct. 1, 1973, with Wilmer Scott, 35, of Chattanooga, Tenn.

The pair was captured Oct. 2, 1973, in Fort Thomas, Ky.

Sloan is accused in the murders of Elva Harper, 63, night manager of the Fisher Motel in Falmouth, and two construction workers, Monroe Sizemore, 34, and his brother David, 26, of Hyden.

The trio was slain during a robbery, police said.

Scott died last winter in a prison fire at Eddyville.

Three persons fined in court

A Mount Sterling man who pleaded guilty to two charges of assault and two persons charged with public intoxication were fined Monday in Municipal Court by acting Judge John P. Case.

Kenneth L. Collins, 37, Mount Sterling, was fined $10 on each of two counts of assault. The charges had been filed on private warrants.

William L. Johns, 44, of 705 E. Paint St., and Francis I. Queen, 51, of 520 Third St., were fined $25 each on charges of intoxication filed by city police.

The Union Jack was Canada's official flag from 1763 to 1965.

Rev. Copley national chaplain

The national convention of the Veterans of World War I has named Cloyce D. Copley, of Washington C.H., as the national chaplain.

The Rev. Mr. Copley, 221 Gardner Court, won the national election by a 700-vote margin in a three-way race for the office. The other candidates were C. Justin Merriman, of California, and John S. Jamison, of Idaho.

The convention was held in Kansas City and attracted members from all 50 states.

Rev. Copley became active in Veterans of World War I affairs by serving the local barracks as chaplain, commander and adjutant. On the district level, he has been chaplain and commander, and has served three years as chaplain of the Ohio department.

He is presently chaplain at Fayette Memorial Hospital three days per week and has been appointed for the second time as Veterans Administration volunteer service at Chillicothe Hospital.

APPOINTED deputy national

chaplain earlier this year by Commander Halsy Finn, he is responsible for contacting bereaved families of all deceased members of the Veterans of World War I in Ohio.

A United Methodist minister for 50 years, Rev. Copley was born near Dishler. He graduated from Findlay High School and obtained a bachelor of science degree in agriculture from Ohio State University. He served in World War I before marrying Cleora M. Hoy and settling down on a farm.

Three years later, he entered Boston University to begin seminary training. He served a rural community before entering the military as a chaplain during World War II.

He continued his ministry in Cincinnati after the war and retired to Washington C.H. in 1966, where he has had a most active "retirement."

Disagreements accelerated, Muskie says

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—President Ford's pardon of former President Nixon will hasten the end of Ford's honeymoon with the Democratic Congress, Sen Edmund G. Muskie, D-Maine, predicted Monday.

"The honeymoon was bound to reach the point where there would be honest disagreements and tough questions," Muskie said. "This accelerates that."

Legal proceedings against Nixon should have proceeded so that the full story of Watergate would be known, but the senator said jailing Nixon probably would serve no useful purpose.

Speaking at a conference on regional government, Muskie said federal revenue sharing impedes government efficiency by encouraging revival of government institutions that provide few services.

Mozambique truce set

By The Associated Press

The Portuguese government today announced a 48-hour truce with rebellious white settlers occupying key buildings in Lourenco Marques, the capital of Mozambique.

An announcement in Lisbon said "the situation has developed favorably in the past few hours," hinting that a compromise settlement was under consideration. Two envoys from Lisbon met with leaders of the rebel movement Monday and flew back Monday night to report to the government at home.

The rebels took over the radio station, the airport and other installations in Lourenco Marques on Saturday in an attempt to keep guerrilla leader Samora Machel and his followers from taking power in the southeast African colony.

Machel vowed that the rebellious settlers would be "quickly neutralized and annihilated" by his forces and the Portuguese army.

The Afghan hound, a native hound of Afghanistan, was first introduced to England in 1907.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1♥	Pass	2 NT	Pass
3♣	Pass	3♥	Pass

Opening lead - two of spades.

The uppercut is undoubtedly one of the most satisfying plays available to the defense — but the situation where it can be successfully applied does not necessarily burst upon the scene ready-made. It must sometimes be rather carefully concocted, so that the death blow can be dealt at just the right moment.

Here is a case where the defense had to be letter-perfect to stop declarer from making four hearts. Looking at all four hands, it would seem that South should lose only two spades and a heart, but, in fact, he lost four tricks and could do nothing to avoid it.

West led a spade to East's king. East knew from the lead of the deuce that West had four spades and declarer two, so he cashed the ace also. He then made the unorthodox play of another spade to dummy's Q-9, realizing that his partner's 10-8 would be trapped in the process.

It was this play that laid South low and caused him to go down one. He discarded a club and returned a trump from dummy, finessing the jack.

West took the queen and led a fourth round of spades to dummy's queen. When East ruffed with the king, South overruffed with the ace but had to lose still another trump trick to the nine to go down one. The uppercut was more than he could stand.

It is interesting to note that to defeat the contract West had to lead a spade, East had to play three rounds of spades, and West had to pursue East's indicated method of defense by later playing a fourth round of spades.

There are very few hands in bridge that require such absolute precision. They are therefore all the more remarkable when they do occur and the players rise gallantly to the occasion.

In Focus

by
Charlie Pensyl

"I've been in photography for 60 years and I've never shot a roll of film that I didn't learn something." That quote is from one of the best photographers I've ever known. And it touches on the most important reason why photography is such a rewarding hobby or profession. There's always something new to learn in the field of photography. There is a blend of science and art and much room for the cameraman to express himself as an individual. The tyro can have a ball making just the kind of pix that turns him on. The experienced lensman has access, however, to vast areas of photographic expression that the beginner never dreamed of. As one advances in the field of photography he finds that each new area brings more fun to picture making.

The other day a pro came in from another part of the country, just to talk shop. He said what I've heard so many photographers say, "Why would a guy that likes photography go into any other field?" Think about that.

Well, classes at CFEN usually begin about the third week in September and this year is no exception. From the very first one, they will be full of info for those who wish to make color slides and slide presentations that will bring approbation. You may be interested in attending these photographic classes. If so you will want to check in the camera shop for a schedule and further information. At this point I might add that there is no charge for these classes; it's a service to our customers. It's been our contention for years that when we sell a person equipment and supplies we have an obligation to help him learn to use it properly.

Deputies probe theft

Burglary, larceny checked by police

A breaking and entering incident at a Washington C.H. woman's home was reported by city police, along with a bicycle larceny. The Fayette County Sheriff's Department is investigating the theft of several items from a Leesburg man's truck.

Sometime between 4:30 p.m. and 4:45 p.m. Monday, the residence of Ada Baughn, 419 East St., was entered and a

Bookkeeping by lottery staff rapped

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—The Ohio Lottery's bookkeeping problems are no different than those any new organization would experience, a lottery spokesman said Monday.

The spokesman was responding to Ohio Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson's statement that the lottery commission has bookkeeping problems due mainly to its location in Cleveland and a lack of employees that have a knowledge of state procedures.

Ferguson also complained that the commission's notes were little more than "rough notes ... unsigned, unapproved and therefore of doubtful legal value."

"We were working with Kelly girls," said the exasperated lottery spokesman. "We didn't even have a staff of our own."

But he added that meeting notes would be approved at the following meeting from now on.

Other criticisms by the auditor:

Only four of five commission members had bonds on file with the secretary of state. But the report noted the Department of Administrative Services was in process of obtaining blanket coverage of commission employees.

Some vouchers did not contain proper documentation of expenses.

The lottery spokesman said the commission staff was learning from experience and was working closely with the liaison man in the auditor's office.

The audit, covering from Nov. 21, 1973, to June 30, 1974, showed the commission had spent $71,723 of its $2 million state advance. The auditor noted that the books balanced.

Franklin man given sentence

LEBANON, Ohio (AP) — Thomas Bond, 22, of Franklin, was sentenced to 20-40 years in prison Monday following his conviction in Warren County Common Pleas Court on a charge of selling an hallucinogen.

Bond was arrested in July, 1973, following a raid at Franklin during which marijuana bricks, valued at $40,000, were seized.

was seated at 10:25 a.m. and following a short recess the trial began.

Laytart is charged with the theft of a bicycle, valued at $70, from a garage at the residence of the Rev. Gerald Wheat, 220 N. Hinde St., on May 26. Although the value of the bicycle is less than $150, the charge is being prosecuted as a felony since Laytart has a previous theft conviction.

REV. WHEAT was the first prosecution witness called to the stand after opening arguments. Rev. Wheat identified the bicycle as the one owned by his son and testified that it had been discovered missing from their garage the evening of May 27.

He said he was certain the bicycle was in the garage when he unlocked the garage at 12:30 p.m. on May 27. He said his wife reported the missing bicycle to Washington C.H. police officers the following morning.

Laytart was arrested by police May 29 when police dispatcher Mike Taylor noticed him riding a bicycle which fit the description of the stolen bicycle.

The court recessed for lunch following Rev. Wheat's testimony.

Members of the jury are Delbert Brown, James M. Wilson, Helen Miller, Robert C. Satchell, Solewien D. Maxie, William E. Cupp, Inez Stuckey, Doris C. Bitzer, Helen R. Hixon, Ruth Larman, Frank Bayes, Lula Haugen.

Judge Evelyn Coffman is presiding over the case. Robert Simpson is Laytart's counsel and the case is being prosecuted by James A. Kiger and John H. Rossmann, county prosecuting attorneys.

Cigarette, cigar butts grow short

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — Steamtrain Maury, retired king of the hoboes, says President Ford doesn't need economic advisors to report on inflation.

All he needs is to ask a hobo.

"Hoboes can tell about inflation by the length of cigarette and cigar butts," Steamtrain said. "The longer they are, the better times are."

"And right now, the butts are awful short. People are smoking 'em clear down to the end."

Steamtrain, or sometimes referred to as Maury Graham, 60, returned to his Toledo home a few days ago after a year on the road as America's Hobo King.

He ran for the office on a pledge to visit veterans hospitals around the country. By the time he retired, Steamtrain said he visited more than 34,000 veterans in more than half the 50 states.

Retirement means he is looking for work in his trade as a cement mason so he can pay back $4,000 to $5,000 he borrowed to roam the country.

"The wife didn't like me taking off, even though she lent me some money for the trip," he said. "She wants me to settle down for good."
